

Wayne State University in association with the United Nations Global Compact and Mainstay Capital Management are thrilled to be bringing the world's largest student investment conference to Detroit.

Coming to Cobo Center on March 26-27, 2015, the ENGAGE International Investment Education Symposium will bring together more than 2,000 students and professionals from across the United States and Canada to learn more about best practices and trends in economics, finance, global markets, venture capital and more.

Thursday, March 26, will open with a "Federal Reserve Perspective" by Federal Reserve Bank President Dennis Lockhart, followed by panel discussions on the global economy, financial markets and financial industry. Friday, March 27, will offer numerous concurrent breakout panels, workshops and presentations that will focus on investment-related topics and career opportunities. An optional student-managed portfolio competition and a student stock pick competition will also take place on Friday with cash prizes presented to the winners of each competition. Up to 8 CE credits will be available for professionals.

CNBC will serve as the "Official Broadcaster" of the event, reporting live from Cobo throughout the symposium.
